Roots and Future

A map to orient oneself.
A compass to imagine tomorrow.

For young foreigners.
An open window
on the experience of reception and inclusion.

Gemini Notebook

The project was born to intertwine these worlds.
No young person must cut their roots to grow;
they can use them to weave new ties.

The Roots
(The starting point)

Personal baggage, identity, and cultural codes of the country of origin. It is the inner world, beliefs, and affections every young person carries with them.

The Future
(The arrival horizon)

The opportunity to build a serene, conscious, and sustainable life project in the new territory that welcomes them.

Gemini Notebook

Why is a compass needed?

Arrival in a new city is a moment of disorientation and vulnerability. Our Welcome Kit is designed to help young people:

Protect Themselves

Know their rights and duties, rules of coexistence, and how to exercise them with respect.

Orient Themselves

Decrease confusion, isolation, and anger by building a clear mental map of the new context.

Know Themselves

Recognize their psychophysical and emotional balance as an essential base for living serenely and achieving goals.

Integrate

Become protagonists in a society where differences are opportunities for encounters that spark curiosity and bring people closer.

The Journey Coordinates: Understanding the Context

Rights, Duties, and Legality

The rules of civil coexistence, civic education, and awareness of the risks linked to street life.

Language as a Key

Because learning the local language is the first real tool for accessing social life and knowing where to do it.

The Reception System

Understanding where one is, who the actors of the system are (educators, social workers, etc.), and the meaning of the path offered by the city.

The Journey Coordinates: Building the Self

Physical and Psychological Well-being

Learning to listen to oneself, recognizing fragilities, understanding what it means to feel good, and knowing who to ask for help without fear.

The Future and Experiences

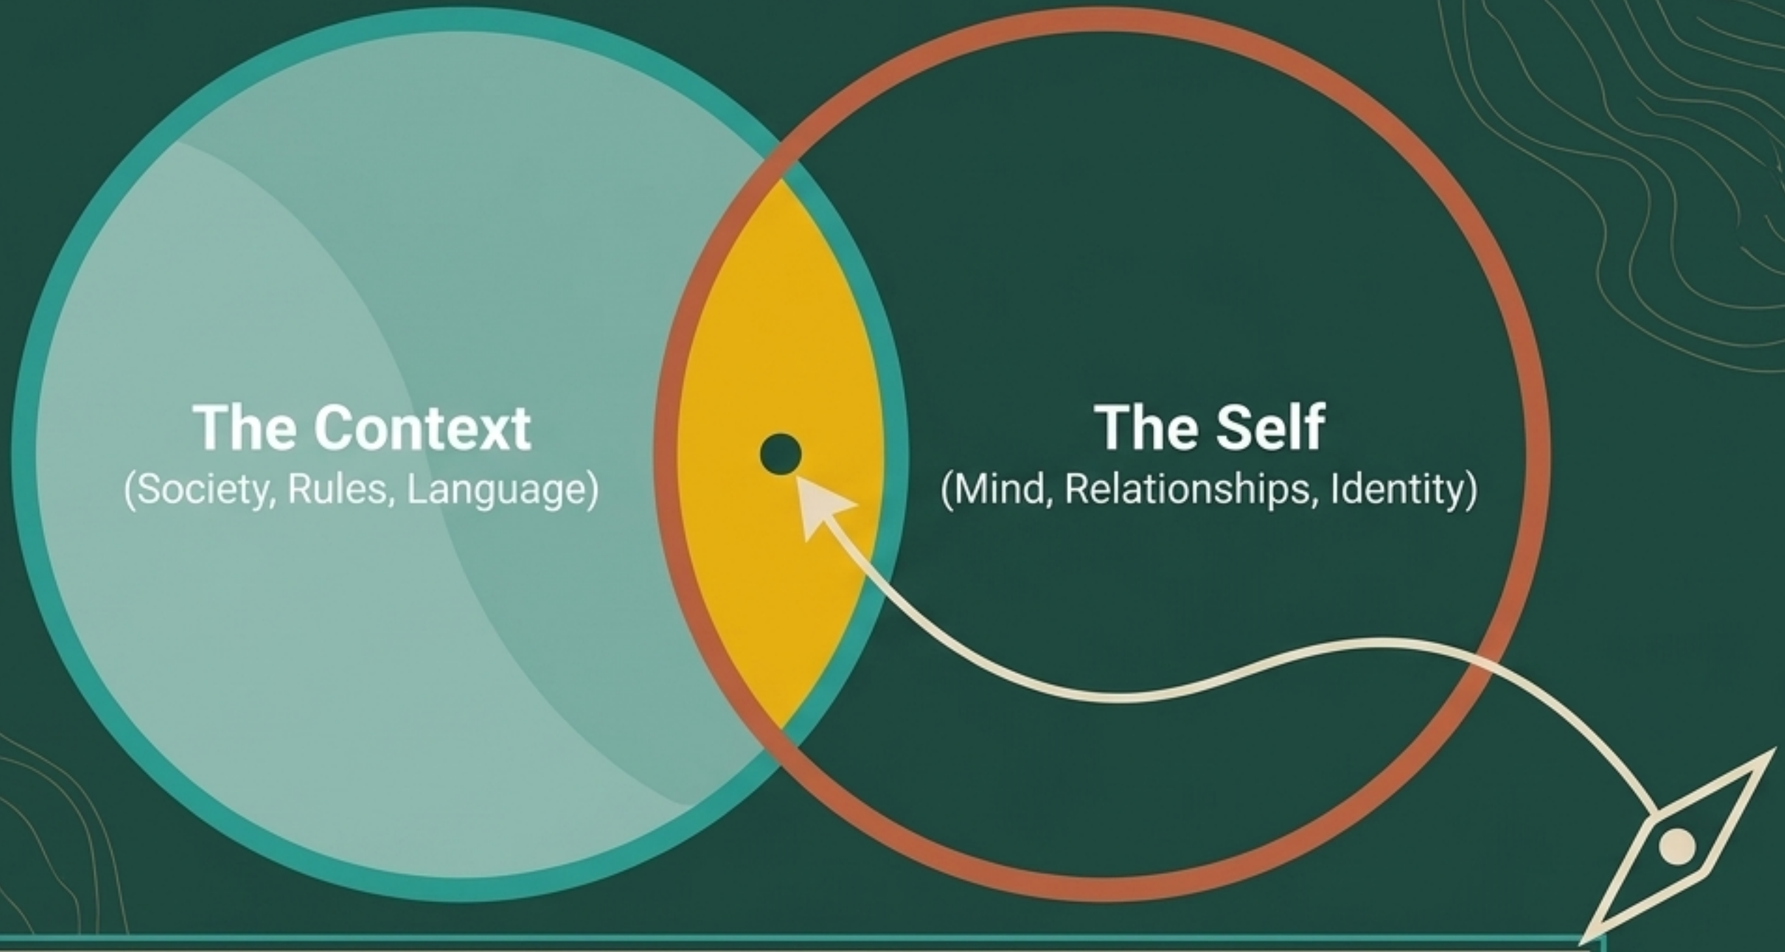
Planning tomorrow through study and work, dismantling the illusions of social media by listening to the stories of those who have already been there.

Relationships and Faith

Managing family expectations, living one's spirituality with respect. Creating bonds and relationships with reference figures and in life contexts.

Gemini Notebook

The Balance of Inclusion

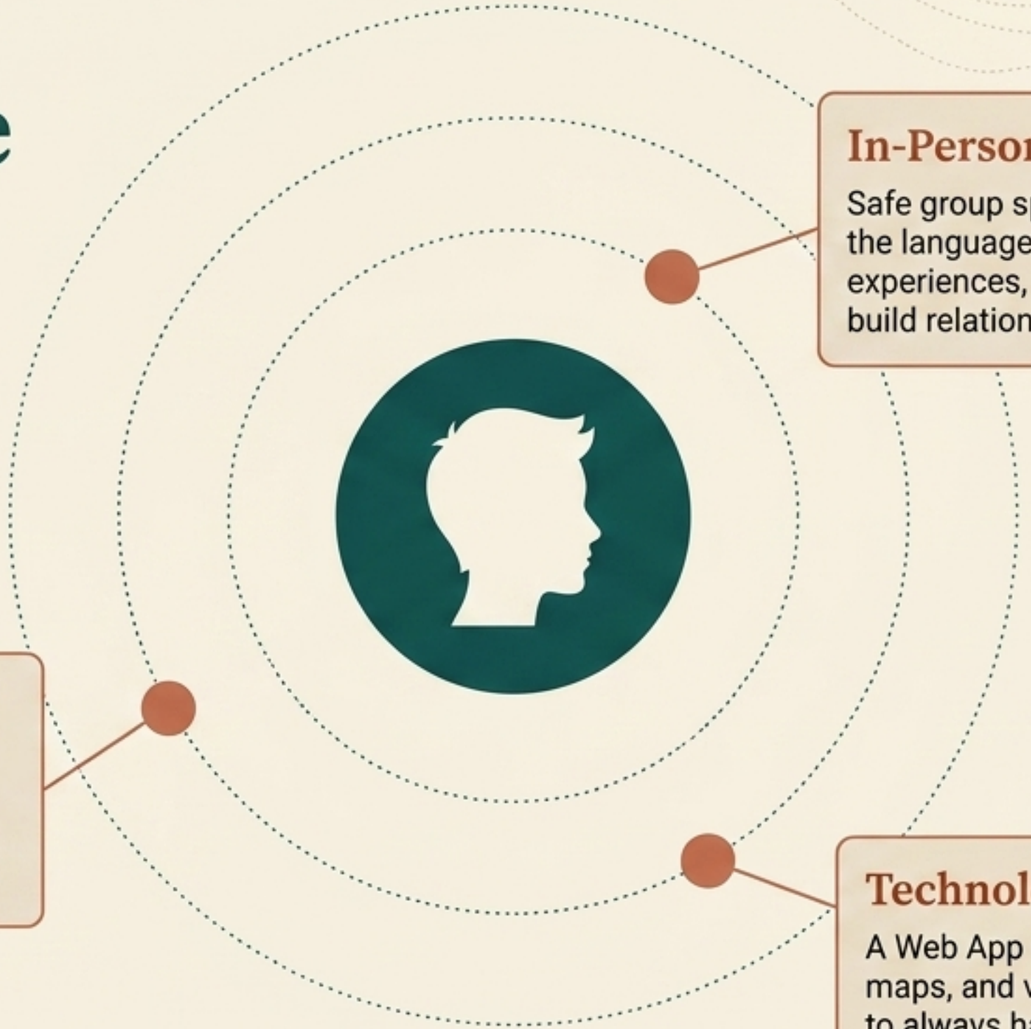


The true compass does not only indicate physical places, but aligns the rules of the new city with the inner well-being of the youth.

Gemini Notebook

Multiple languages for a single message

It is not enough to transmit information: it is necessary to speak the language of new generations through integrated tools.



In-Person Dialogue

Safe group spaces, conducted in the language of origin, to share experiences, ask questions, and build relationships.

Voices of Inspiration

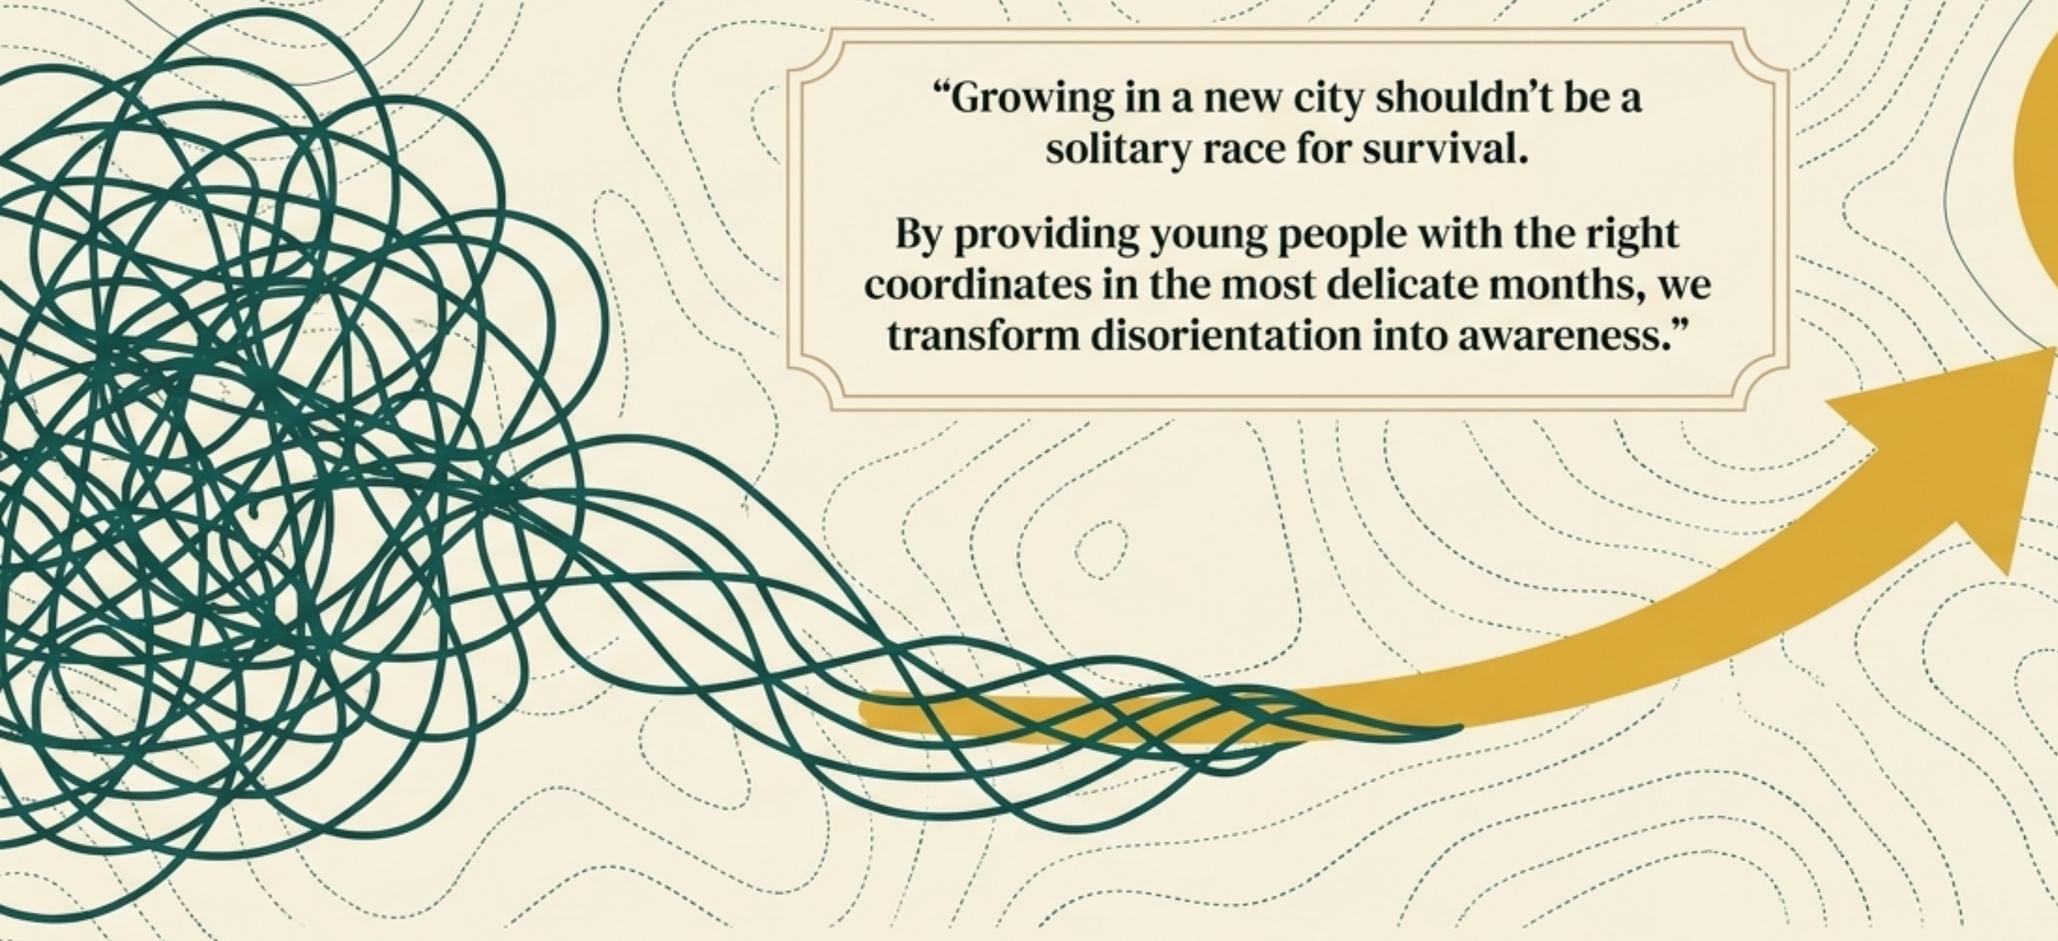
Encounters with peers and citizens who become real role models, capable of generating profound empathetic impact.

Technology at Hand

A Web App with videos, interactive maps, and virtual ambassadors to always have the city's coordinates on a smartphone.

Gemini Notebook

A Shared Horizon



"Growing in a new city shouldn't be a solitary race for survival.

By providing young people with the right coordinates in the most delicate months, we transform disorientation into awareness."

The final objective is a community where every youth, strengthened by their roots, can feel at home, at peace, and free to plan their own future.
